

February 2022

Rob's Rambles

Who would believe that 24 hours ago we had a 90 mph gust on the Bradwell Edge above Tideswell and it is going to be almost as rough again to-night with the possibility of snow added in ? To-day (30th Jan) has been beautiful with hardly any wind and bright sunshine. The evenings are drawing out, the snowdrops have appeared, and the ground is drying out.... Spring must be on the way !

Church Services have resumed and it was nice to see the Vicar back in good form although he refused to lead the singing and nobody else volunteered !

Anybody thought about the Queen's Jubilee celebrations yet ? Are we going to join in with Warslow or should we organise our own Street Party ? They will probably have a Band and a Bar – but there will be lots of people we don't know. Or we could celebrate on a smaller scale - but you will know everybody ! If you are interested, please chat with Rob or Margaret.

Thoughts for This Month

- To-morrow – the best time to do everything that you had planned for to-day
- I've learned so much from my mistakes that I'm thinking of making a few more (proof reader required – apply to Editor)
- Procrastination is great ! You always have something to do to-morrow plus you have nothing to do to-day.
